1 ISSUE PRESENTED

2 I. Whether the trial court erred in denying Packineau's
3 Application for Post-conviction Relief?
4

5
6 STATEMENT OF THE CASE
7

8 This is an appeal from the Trial Court's Order and
9 Amended Judgment denying the application of Gerald Packineau
10 (hereinafter "Packineau"), for post-conviction relief. (Record at 11 70).
12

13 Packineau was convicted of Gross Sexual Imposition by 14 jury verdict of guilty on February 19, 2003. (Record at 37). On 15 May 5, 2003, Packineau was sentenced to ten years with the 16 North Dakota Department of Corrections with five years
17 suspended for five years of probation. (Record at 41 and 53).
18 Packineau began this post-conviction relief proceeding on August
19 18, 2003 by filing his Petition for Post-Conviction Relief.
20 (Record at 58). The State of North Dakota ("State") filed its 21 "Answer to Petition for Post-Conviction Relief" on September 3,
22 2003. (Record at 61). On October 1, 2003, an evidentiary hearing
23 was held on Packineau's Petition for Post-Conviction Relief.
24
25
26
27

1 (Record at 59). On October 6, 2003, the trial court denied
2 Packineau's request for post-conviction relief, but directed the
3 State to prepare an amended judgment to correct a clerical error
4 in the original judgment. (Record at 66). A Second Amended
5 Judgment was filed on October 9, 2003 which corrected the level
6 of the offense from an A Felony to a B Felony (Record at 67).
7 This appeal followed. (Record at 70). Packineau then requested
8 to Amend his Petition for Post-Conviction Relief. (Record at 82).
9 The State resisted. (Record at 83). The trial court denied
10 Packineau's request to amend his original petition. (Record at 87).
11 This appeal continued.

17 STATEMENT OF FACTS

18 The State disputes many of the "facts" as set forth by 19 Packineau. Packineau fails to provide citations to the record for 20 most of these "facts". Therefore, the State submits its own
21 Statement of Facts:
22

24 Packineau petitioned for post-conviction relief,
25 asserting that his sentence was not authorized by law and that 26 he had received ineffective assistance of counsel. (Record at 27

1 58). In support of his application for post-conviction relief,
2 Packineau submitted an affidavit. (Record at 57). Packineau
3 based his claim of ineffective assistance of counsel on a
4 number of allegations, which included 1) his attorney failed to 5 address that error that the offense was charged as an A Felony
6 rather than a B Felony; 2) his attorney failed to request a lessor
7 included offense of sexual imposition; and 3) his attorney
8 failed to hire an expert on DNA. (Record at 58). The State
9 responded to Packineau's petition through its Answer. (Record 10 at 61). An evidentiary hearing was held on the Petition on 11 October 1, 2003. (Transcript of Proceedings, October 1, 2003).
12 Packineau testified in his own behalf. (Tr. pp. 4- 15).
13 Packineau first addressed that fact that the crime of Gross
14 Sexual Imposition of which he was convicted was actually a B
15 Felony rather than an A Felony. (Tr.pp. 4-5). Packineau then
16 testified that the conditions of probation which were imposed
17 upon him, specifically, the conditions which limit his contact
18 with minor children, should not have been imposed as part of 19 his sentence. Id. Finally, Packineau testified that his trial
20 counsel was ineffective in his representation because he failed
21
22
23
24
25
26
27

1 to obtain an expert witness on DNA to dispute the State's DNA
2 evidence. (Tr.pp 6-9).

3 During cross-examination, Packineau acknowledged
4 that his defense at trial was to offer an alternative explanation
5 as to how the victim's DNA got on his fingertips other than 6 during the sexual assault. (Tr. pp 11, 12). The State further
7 cross-examined Packineau about his preparations of this
8 defense with his trial counsel. (Tr. p. 14), Packineau confirmed
9 that he agreed with the defense to be presented at trial. Id.
10 Packineau admitted that he always maintained that he never 11 had any type of sexual contact with the victim and therefore,
12 never considered requesting a lesser included offense of sexual 13 imposition. (Tr. pp. 14, 15).

14 The State next called Packineau's trial counsel, Kent
15 Morrow (hereinafter "Morrow"), to testify. (Tr. P. 16).
16 Morrow testified that he discussed trial strategy several times
17 with Packineau prior to the trial and that Packineau maintained
18 his position that he never had sexual contact with the victim.
19 (Tr. pp. 16, 17). Morrow also testified as to why an expert
20 witness on DNA was not retained for the defense. (Tr. pp. 17-

1 19). Morrow explained that the defense strategy to explain that
2 the victim's DNA got on Packineau's fingertips during a
3 struggle and not during a sexual assault made the DNA
4 evidence presented by the State irrelevant. (Tr. pp. 18, 19).
5 Morrow also testified that a lesser included offense was not
6 considered as Packineau's defense was that no acts occurred
7 which would support a conviction on a lesser included offense
8 any more than they would the greater offense. (Tr. p.19).

13 LAW AND ARGUMENT

14 I. The trial court properly denied Packineau's 15 Petition for Post-Conviction Relief. 16

17 Packineau has the burden of establishing the basis for 18 the requested post-conviction relief. McMorrow v. State, 2003
19 ND 134, ¶4, 667 N.W.2d 577 (citing Berlin v. State, 2000 ND
20 206, ¶7, 619 N.W.2d 623). A petitioner applying for post-21 conviction relief claiming ineffective assistance of counsel "has 22 the 'heavy,' 'demanding' burden of proving counsel's
23 assistance was ineffective, and a defendant claiming ineffective
24 assistance of counsel 'must specify how and where trial
25
26
27

1 counsel was incompetent and the probable different result.” Id.
2 at ¶10 (citations omitted).

3
4 The burden upon the petitioner to prove ineffective
5 assistance of counsel is two-fold: he must prove (1) that 6 counsel's representation fell below an objective standard of 7 reasonableness, and (2) that he was prejudiced by counsel's
8 deficient performance. Mertz v. State, 535 N.W.2d 834 at 836
9 (N.D. 1995); Lange v. State, 522 N.W.2d 179 at 181 (N.D.
10 1994); State v. Dalman, 520 N.W.2d 860 at 863 (N.D. 1994);
11 Hoffarth v. State, 515 N.W.2d 146 at 150 (N.D. 1994); Houle v.
12 State, 482 N.W.2d 24, 26 (N.D. 1992); Strickland v.
13 Washington, 466 U.S. 668, 688, 694 (1984). The prejudice
14 element requires that the defendant establish a reasonable
15 probability that, but for counsel's unprofessional errors, the 16 result of the proceeding would have been different. Sampson
17 v. State. 506 N.W.2d 722, 726 (N.D. 1993). The defendant
18 must point out with specificity or particularity how and where 19 trial counsel was incompetent and the probable different result.
20 State v. Lefthand, 523 N.W.2d 63, 70 (N.D. 1994). In State v.
21 Lefthand, 523 N.W.2d at 69, this Court held that “[t]he heavy
22
23
24
25
26
27

1 presumption is that counsel's conduct fell within the range of
2 reasonableness, and we will not second guess defense strategy
3 through hindsight." Utilizing the twofold test and the 4 presumption of competency of counsel, Packineau did not
5 come close to establishing his burden or even a claim of 6 violation of rights. As stated in Lange, supra, at 182, "it is not 7 the State's burden to prove counsel was effective." That burden
8 was on Packineau and he needed more than simple assertions
9 or allegations.
10
12

13 Packineau argues that his attorney was ineffective
14 because of the offense level was erroneously listed as a class A
15 felony rather than a class B felony. This argument was rejected
16 by the trial court. (Record at 61). Packineau was charged by 17 Information and Amended Information with Gross Sexual 18 Imposition in violation of Section 12.1-20-03 of the North
19 Dakota Century Code, alleging that he "engaged in a sexual act
20 with another and he knew the victim was unaware that a sexual 21 act was being committed upon her, specifically, he engaged in 22 a sexual act with J.R.M.;" The language of the Information
23 and Amended Information accurately alleged all necessary
24
25
26
27

1 elements for the offense of Gross Sexual Imposition in

2 violation of N.D.C.C. §12.1-20-03(1)(c), a class B felony.

3 While the Amended Information incorrectly listed this offense

4 as a class A felony, Packineau was sentenced in accordance

5 with the maximum penalties available for a class B felony.

6 Therefore, Packineau was sentenced within the limits

7 authorized by law. The inclusion of the reference to class A

8 felony within the Amended Information was merely a clerical

9 error which did not affect the elements the State was required

10 to prove beyond a reasonable doubt, nor did it affect the 11 sentence imposed upon Packineau. Packineau was unable to 12 demonstrate the clerical error had any effect upon the outcome

13 of the jury trial held in this case. Packineau's trial counsel's

14 failure to object to the reference to class A felony would not

15 have produced a different result in the proceedings. The 16 reference to class A felony was only a clerical error. There

17 were not additional elements of the offense charged which

18 needed to be alleged or proved, and Packineau was sentenced

19 within the maximum sentence applicable to a class B felony.

1 Packineau's next claims he is entitled to relief in that
2 his trial counsel was ineffective for failing to hire a DNA
3 expert to refute the State's DNA evidence. Packineau's trial
4 counsel's decision not to hire a DNA expert was trial strategy
5 which cannot and should not be subject to review. Further,
6 Packineau cannot demonstrate that the hiring of a DNA expert
7 would have changed the result of the proceedings. "An 8 unsuccessful trial strategy does not make defense counsel's
9 assistance defective, and we will not second-guess counsel's
10 defense strategy through the distorting effects of hindsight."
11 Garcia v. State, 2004 ND 81, ¶8, 678 N.W.2d 568 (citing 12 Breeding v. State, 1998 ND 170, ¶9, 584 N.W.2d 493).

13
15
16
17 Morrow testified that he discussed trial strategy several times
18 with Packineau prior to the trial and that Packineau maintained
19 his position that he never had sexual contact with the victim.
20 (Tr. pp. 16, 17). Morrow testified that an expert witness on 21 DNA was not retained for the defense because the defense
22 strategy to explain that the victim's DNA got on Packineau's
23 fingertips during a struggle and not during a sexual assault
24 made the DNA evidence presented by the State irrelevant.
25
26
27

1 (Tr. pp. 17-19). Packineau also acknowledged that his
2 defense was to offer an alternative explanation as to how the 3 victim's DNA got on his fingertips other than during the 4 sexual assault. (Tr. pp 11, 12). There was ample evidence
5 presented at trial concerning Packineau's guilt. Morrow was 6 not ineffective in failing to hire an expert on DNA. Morrow's
7 trial strategy was not to attack the DNA evidence, but to offer
8 an innocent explanation as to how the victim's DNA was 9 transferred to Packineau's fingertips, a trial strategy with 10 which Packineau agreed. The jury simply did not believe
11 Packineau.
12

14
15 Finally, Packineau identifies two additional issues
16 regarding his trial counsel's performance for the first time on 17 appeal: (a) "Conflict of Interest of working for the State and 18 Representing the Client and Protecting My Right to a Fair
19 Trial and Due Process of the Law by Council" [sic]; and 20 (b) "The Editing or Censorship of Trial & Post Conviction [sic]
21 Transcripts." Packineau did not raise these issues in his 22 petition filed with the trial court. (Record at 58). North 23 Dakota Century Code § 29-32.1-04 provides that "[t]he 24
25
26
27

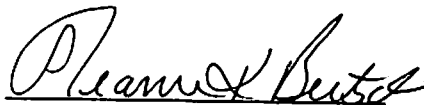

1 application must... set forth a concise statement of each
2 ground for relief..." Should a petitioner omit some necessary
3 ground for relief, he or she may move the Court to permit the 4 defendant to amend the application. See NDCC §29-32.1-07
5 ("The court may make appropriate orders allowing
6 amendment of the application...."). In this case, Packineau
7 did not move to amend his petition until after the evidentiary
8 hearing was completed and the trial court had issued its order.
9 Therefore, the trial court had no opportunity to consider these 10 issues and they have not been preserved for review on appeal.
11 (Record at 82). Further, Packineau did not even raise these 12 issues in his Motion to Amend Petition for Post-Conviction
13 Relief. Id. Even is this Court were to somehow find that 14 these issues were raised, no hearing on the issues would be 15 required because they are patently frivolous allegations
16 unsupported by any evidence within the record. See 17 Whiteman v. State, 2002 ND 77, ¶19, 643 N.W.2d 704.

II. CONCLUSION

The State did not err in denying Packineau's Petition for Post-Conviction Relief. The State of North Dakota respectfully requests that this Court AFFIRM the decision of the trial court.
