To whom it may concern;

I think since a change of venue was not granted to them (the water protectors) they should be allowed to bring in out of state lawyers. We live in America not some third world country. Plus, since it appears that the lawyers in that state (North Dakota) are congested it would only be fair that they should be able to receive counseling from other states. I am but one voice but I am sure I am followed by many others.

Thank you for your time
